GENERAL INFORMATION AND INSTRUCTIONS

INTRODUCING RC-1000:
YOUR SOLUTION TO MINERAL STAINS AND CORROSION

WHAT IS RC-1000?

RC-1000 is a specially formulated liquid substance designed to tackle mineral stains, remove mineral scale, and provide effective mineral sequestration and chelation. Functioning as an internal anti-corrosion agent, RC-1000 safeguards against corrosion pitting without posing any harm to plant life, thanks to its acid and chloride-free composition.

HOW DOES RC-1000 WORK?

Mixed with water in a holding tank and gradually injected into sprinkler systems, RC-1000 forms a protective coating on iron surfaces, preventing oxidation. This proactive approach hinders the formation of rust and red water stains, ensuring the longevity and aesthetic appeal of your properties.

IS RC-1000 HAZARDOUS?

No! RC-1000 boasts a formulation free from muriatic, phosphoric acids, or chlorides. When used as directed, RC-1000 is safe for people, pets, and plants, providing peace of mind as it delivers optimal performance.

HOW IS RC-1000 SOLD?

RC-1000 is conveniently available in 5-gallon buckets and 55-gallon drums, catering to diverse needs and quantities for both residential and industrial applications.

HOW IS RC-1000 APPLIED?

The proper dosage or solution strength of RC-1000 is contingent on the iron and hardness content, as well as the sprinkler pump size of your Rust-Master unit (typically a 15-, 35-, or 55-gallon tank). Regular water testing for iron and hardness levels allows for accurate adjustments to ensure optimal performance and protection.

MIXING RATIO
